BURGLAR QUEEN AND PAL FIGHT POLICE IN COURT

Safe-Blower Peschky Aided in Vicious Battle With Dozen Guards.

"I'll fix you for this," she shrieked at Mr. Hahn, and, picking a long baton from some place of concealment in the skirts of her dress, she drove for him. He was just getting to his feet and he tumbled over again. Two policemen released their hold on the brother and made for her. She fought them desperately, jabbing with her baton at their eyes and clawing like a cat.

Had to Grapple With Woman.

By this time O'Farrell, Duggan, Hunt and four others, after wrestling in the railed space facing the desk, had thrown Peschky down and were piled on him holding his shoulders to the floor. The mass heaved and lifted as he strained to be free. The court building was in an uproar, and in the room some of the spectators were trying to get out and the rest pressing forward to watch the battle.

A policeman tripped Minnie Marchetti and tumbled her, face forward, on the floor in the main aisle. He went on her arms back while a companion looked over her shoulders. As they raised her to her feet, helples except to curse, Peschky, who had been under her half-exhausted captives. He leaped back ten feet, snatched up a heavy iron candlestick and aimed it at Hunt's head. O'Farrell quick under the weapon and shoved him over in time to save the veteran sergeant. Then the five policemen laid their hands on her and she was taken to the room to do all over again. Finally they got him flattened on his face and chained his wrists together. He had his back to the wall when he gave a backward glance at the chain nippers and he was on his knees once more, striking out wildly, blaspheming and getting his teeth into the sound rose above the other noises. From a hidden pocket in his shirt twenty ten-dollar gold pieces spilled on the floor.

Fought Like a Fiend.

It took nearly ten minutes of hard fighting this time to hold him down. Some of the men could hold his hands and arms, while others twisted fragments of his shirt and coat. For a quarter of an hour he lay, fighting at those who ventured near. Hunt undertook to move him and had his thumb grazed as the trailing jaws came together with a vicious snap. Marchetti, who had been quiet during the whole mass, could do nothing with the frenzied man. Neither Peschky's brother, who admitted Peschky had been a thief in the old country.

Finally the woman was brought back to her feet. The police had promised Mrs. Coleman, the proprietress, officer to be quiet. True to her word, she went to her brother and as he bent forward he fixed the teeth in the hem of her dress and tore out a section of the lining. It was decided to postpone the hearing until Saturday. After reinforcing the bonds with a pair of heavy handcuffs, four policemen carried Peschky on their shoulders across the bridge of stairs. In his cell the turnkeys chained him by the ankles to his bunk and left him wearing bracelets.

Steen Paul's lawyer for the trial, old Magistrate Hermann, believed the man was more fit for a hospital than a jail. He will not be taken to the trial, but he will be kept in the hospital until he is well enough to stand as a witness in court.

Sheriff Reports That Lamphier's Lawyer, Who Wants Woman, "Failed to Give Address."

LAFORCE, Ind., Nov. 12.—The session of court in the trial of Mrs. Lamphier on the charge of murdering Mrs. Belle Guinness and her three children began with ten jurors tentatively accepted on both sides. It is expected that the jury will be completed today. Examination of the fourth juror of twenty-five began soon after court met.

Sheriff Smutzer today turned into court Attorney Worden's subpoena for "Mrs. Belle Guinness," with the statement that Mr. Worden had failed to furnish an address of the woman, and with the further statement that she was not to be found. The court, Mr. Worden declared that he needed her as a witness to his own case. Mr. Worden testified to the finding of poison in the stomachs of Mrs. Guinness and two of the children. The defense will use him to disprove the state's contention that the minutes of the Guinness case died from suffocation and

PASTOR'S SALARY NOT LESS THAN $1,200 A YEAR

Episcopal Diocese Fixes Scale for Clergymen, Married and Single.

Ministerial members to receive a salary of not less than $1,200 a year and a suitable home to live, or $1,500 in clear money, and unmarried clergymen to receive not less than $1,200 a year—that is the gist of a resolution passed at the annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York today. The resolution, which was proposed by the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's Church, was greeted with much applause. Rev. Dr. Parks explained that there are twenty-two ministerial stations in the diocese paying clergymen less than $1,200 annually. Fifteen of these clergymen are married, one minister draws no salary, another receives $100 a year and seven receive $1,000 each.

It will be necessary to raise $10,000, according to Dr. Parks, to meet the proposed increase in salaries. This, however, is to be done by levying a tax of 2 per cent on the salary of every clergyman in the diocese and 2 per cent on each year.

Dr. Parks gave his hearty approval to the resolution. Dr. Parks called attention to the fact that the late Bishop Potter had recommended a raise of salaries.

A compulsory collection should be taken up on the first Sunday in January as a supplementary fund, said Dr. Parks. "The Committee on Income and Clerical Salaries, of which I am chairman, further believes that twenty-five cents should be assessed annually on every communicant in each parish in such a way as the rector shall see fit and deem best."

FOUR HIGHWAYMEN PUT TO FLIGHT BY DOCTOR'S SHOT

Threw Up His Hands When Ordered, but One Held a Pistol.

An attempted hold-up, in which the intended victim put four highwaymen to flight, was reported to the Sheriff of Westchester County today. The report was made in connection with a request for some police activity in the neighborhood of Union Corners, where a gang of robbers has been working for weeks.

Dr. Arthur Von Gestel was on his way home from the station at 10 o'clock on Tuesday night when he was held up on a lonely road by four men, who commanded him to throw up his hands and shell out his property. The doctor, who was for twenty years a captain in the German army, and always carries a revolver, threw up his hands at once.

But one of the hands held a pistol. He fired point blank at the nearest highwayman and the other three fled in confusion. The doctor, who was for twenty years a captain in the German army, and always carries a revolver, threw up his hands at once.

Henry Lang, a farmer, driving from Mount Vernon to his home in Union Corners, was halted by two men a few rods from where Dr. Von Gestel was held up. One of the men snatched Lang's horse and the other climbed into the wagon and dragged him to the ground. Both men then set upon and robbed him.

All the search revealed was the sum of fifteen cents. The robbers in revenge gave Lang a severe beating. It is believed that his assailants were residents of the neighborhood who know city with the produce and takes the money home with him.

BALLOON UP TEN HOURS.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—One of the dirigible balloons of the German Army made a most successful flight last night. The airship lasted about ten hours. The airship descended in the water near Woldin, on the Baltic, and was deflated and returned to Berlin by rail.

NIGHT RIDERS ARE DEFENDED IN CONVENTION

An Oppressed People Working From Best Motives, Cotton Men Are Told.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 12.—Fifty denunciation of "night riders" and equally fervent defense of the "night riders" threw the Cotton Convention into disorder to-day and nearly terminated the day's session before the programme had fairly begun. President Harvie Jordan finally succeeded in stilling the excitement.

While excited delegates hurled charges and counter charges, T. A. Sisson, of Mississippi, made himself heard above the uproar that filled the auditorium and motioned the convention adjourn sine die. President Jordan, after pounding continuously throughout the uproar, finally brought a semblance of quiet and made a plea for order. His words had an effect, but it was only after the most sensational event of the convention.

Walter Clark, of Clarksdale, Miss., precipitated the trouble when he wandered from the subject of the "night riders" and handling of cotton to discussion of the "night riders" situation. He bitterly denounced "night riding," called the "night riders" "a race and men who shoot people in the back."

A. C. Roane, a resident of Northeastern Mississippi, jumped on his chair and called Mr. Clark to order. He said the "night riders" were an oppressed people, fighting for what they believed to be right, working against overwhelming odds, but always from the best motives. His words created a sensation in the convention.

BALLOONS READY FOR GREAT RACE 'CROSS CONTINENT'

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 12.—One of the most spectacular balloon races in the history of American aeronautics will be started from Los Angeles next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the two monster balloons American and United States will be sent away in a race across the continent that may result in breaking all records for long distance flights.

The present is the first balloon race to be started on the Pacific coast and is much in the nature of an experiment. Aviators have, however, carefully tested and studied the air currents of the coast and are confident that the wind will carry them directly toward the Atlantic coast.

A remarkable feature of the race is that the great aerial craft must surmount three lofty mountain ranges in their flight toward the east, necessitating the attainment of a height hitherto unaccomplished. The Sierra Nevada, further eastward, and the Rockies, forming the backbone of the continent, constitute the three barriers that must be cleared.

Both Mueller and Wild are confident they will be able to soar high enough to clear the snow-capped peaks of the three ranges, although a height of no less than 15,000 feet must be gained to do so. It is expected that intense cold will be encountered and the balloonists are figuring on just such a contingency.
